Plans Drawn for New Fire Station On Midway Drive

Rumors prevalent in Ocean Beach this week to the effect that this community is to have a new fire station and that the one on Newport ave. would be discontinued were spiked Wednesday evening by a statement from Fire Chief John E. Parrish, saying that the only new fire station contemplated is one that the federal government may build on Midway drive about 300 feet east of its junction with W. Pt. Loma blvd.

Plans have been drawn for what, if built, will be San Diego city fire station No. 24, and which would be of capacity for two companies, only one of which would be commissioned at first, the chief stated. Purpose of the proposed new station would be to serve particularly the two new federal Frontier and Pacific Beach housing projects. Federal approval of the plans, of course, is necessary before any construction would be undertaken since federal funds would be used, the chief pointed out.

Under present plans, only a temporary structure is contemplated, he said.

As for the Ocean Beach fire station, which is No. 15, and which is about 30 years old, no great improvement can be undertaken during the war, Chief Parrish stated. The crew at the station, however, are at work on some minor repairs and are cleaning and re-decorating the building, he said.

Youth Recreation To Start At Ocean Beach School July 1

Recreation programs for children will open in Ocean Beach school, at one of 12 new locations for the summer vacation period, beginning Saturday, July 1. Activities will be conducted from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., reports the director, Henry S. Molino.

Special activities, including handcraft and miscellaneous games for children, will be featured under the leadership of teachers hired from the San Diego school teaching staff. This service is organized by the city recreation department to bring the program closer to the children when travel is so difficult.

Nature study, swims and other activities will be a part of the program where parents are able to assist the supervisor. Beach parties will find a dressing service at Mission Beach, conducted under city recreation department supervision.

BOY SCOUTS CLIMB TO HIGHEST PEAK IN COUNTY

Thirteen Boy Scouts and their leader, Martin Murphy, came home Tuesday from the summer camp on Cuyamaca lake, all with weight gained because of extra good food and all with enthusiasm for the camp, reports the troop's scribe, Louis Bingham. They were the boys of troop No. 28, which is sponsored by the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club. Activities at the camp included hiking, swimming, boating, archery, horseback riding and handicraft, reports the scribe. A special feature of the week was the climb by nine of the Ocean Beach boys to the highest altitude in San Diego county, the top of Cuyamaca peak, which rears its head to a height of 6545 feet, he says.

FINE OF $200 LEVIED FOR DRIVING A MOTOR SCOOTER WHILE DRUNK

Driving a motor "scooter" while drunk was the charge filed against Amon T. Gordon, 30, 4860 Coronado st. He was held guilty by Judge John J. Brennan and was fined $200, of which $125 was suspended to insure more legal behavior. As it happened, this was his second violation of the city ordinance against drunk driving in 10 days, report officers William Shewbert and D. W. Baldwin of the local police force, who made the arrest Tuesday on W. Pt. Loma blvd. near Bacon st.

TWO OCEAN BEACH MEN NOMINATED FOR COUNCIL

Lloyd D. Greeson and Carl Schroeder, both of Ocean Beach, were nominated for the place on the city council vacated by Councilman Fred W. Simpson at Tuesday's meeting. G. C. Crary, Lall Jolla laundryman, was the successful nominee and will succeed Simpson. The latter resigned to accept appointment on the newly created San Diego county water authority. The proposal of his names was a surprise to both of the local men. Selection of Crary had been agreed upon at a conference of the mayor and council held the evening previous.

China Aims To Modernize, Says Kiwanis Speaker

In general the aim of China following this war will be to modernize along U. S. lines, Dr. C. K. Tseng of the staff of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of La Jolla declared in the main address before the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. He was introduced by Dr. Frank Felt, program chairman. Dr. Tseng is doing special research work with seaweeds and has been with the La Jolla institution for two years.

For seven years, he said in part, China has been fighting to prevent the Chinese from becoming slaves of the Japs and China's post-war aims are in the main three in number, he said. One is to work for national security; two, for civilian livelihood; three, political modernization.

Under national security, he said, the aim of China is to be independent and to make the country strong enough to prevail against any aggressor nation that might again seek to exploit the country. He said he did not believe that China would ever become strong enough to conquer the world especially in view of the fact that China for centuries has been a peace-loving nation and expects to continue that way. A strong China will be a great help to the United States in keeping peace in the Pacific, he said.

Under civilian livelihood, he emphasized that the main idea will be to raise the standard of living in China so that the Chinese will be able to live like decent human beings.

The plan is to industrialize China and to mechanize its agriculture sufficiently to raise the standard of living for the Chinese. Pointing out what a long uphill task that will be, he said that under present conditions in China, 20 men are required to produce of farm crops what one man does in the United States and that 700 men are required to produce in China in industry what one man produces in this country. Industrial development in China, he said, would benefit the United States more than any other nation because the Chinese prefer to do business with us and they prefer American-made goods to those of any other nation. A higher standard of living in China should help greatly to provide prosperity in this country, especially along the Pacific coast, he indicated.

In the third principal post-war aim, the Chinese plan to modernize their government and to pattern it in large measure after the government of this country. The Chinese constitution planned for will include not only the three main departments of government as embodied in the American constitution but also will supplement them with two others. These two he described as a department of examination to include all forms of civil service and fifth, a department of government control which will have the power to impeach public servants and to audit all governmental finances.

Asked how long the war in the Orient will last, Dr. Tseng replied that the most optimistic prediction that he could make was a year and a half after the war in Europe has been won by the Allies.

Visitors at Tuesday's meeting were Ensign Mark Insko of the U. S. Maritime Service, who is here for a month's visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Myron O. Insko; and Dr. Richard Barbour of the San Diego Kiwanis club.

Forest Whedon of the Sand Oster clinic was inducted as a new member by Capt. Burritt Mills and Dr. Insko.

Bond Purchases Of $134,268, Far Under Local Quota

War bond purchases in Ocean Beach had reached a total of $134,268.75 by Thursday morning, a survey by The News revealed. The stores also have pepped up in their promotion of the campaign, at least more of them are now working, reports Chairman Burritt S. Mills. He again urges the slogan, "Chute the Works"—"Buy Bonds of Your Favorite Clerk."

The total to date, however, is far below what is expected of this community in the Fifth War Loan drive. While no definite figure has been set, the estimates of the quota here are as high as $500,000, Banker Rollin Reed reported Thursday.

Total cleared through the local bank up to the close of business Wednesday was $127,168.75, Mrs. Ekla Greiner, war bond window manager at the bank, reports, and includes all bond purchases at the local stores. At the post office, $7100 had been sold up to Thursday morning, Supt. Harold Rankin reported.

In order to push the sales, the Safeway stores are putting in sales booths at their stores on Newport and Voltaire.

Only nine days are left until the campaign closing date of Saturday, July 8, Chairman Mills announced Thursday, so the task ahead is the largest order that this community has had, he indicated. "The boys doing the fighting are going their limit, why should we do less when we loan our money?"

Sailor Suffers Broken Back In Cycle-Car Crash

Edward Crie, 19, a sailor, of Mission Beach, suffered a broken back and other injuries, and Banker Rollin Reed of Ocean Beach escaped unhurt when a motorcycle which the youth was riding went out of control on Voltaire ave. near Chatsworth blvd. Thursday afternoon of last week.

Mr. Reed was returning to his home at 2724 Azalea dr. and was alone in his car. The motorcycle from which young Crie had been thrown when he lost control of the machine in making the turn evidently at too high a rate of speed, skidded 60 feet and crashed into the front end of the Reed car, putting the car out of commission, and causing damage estimated at about $200.

Crie's condition was described as serious by traffic officers who investigated the accident. The lad was taken to the Naval hospital for treatment.

Yanks Advance on Two Fronts
As German Resistance Stiffens;
B-29s Blast Steel Mills in Japan

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Steady Progress

Supported by the greatest air fleets in battle history, Allied forces continued to expand their beachhead area in Normandy in the face of stiffening resistance on many fronts.

U. S. forces to the northeast of Cherbourg surged past Montebourg, which was still being contested, and captured Quineville on the east coast of the Cherbourg peninsula. Hammering to the west across the peninsula on a 10-mile front, the Yanks met stiff resistance from crack grenadiers of the fifth German tank division thrown into the Normandy fighting.

A communique from General Eisenhower's headquarters said that steady progress had been made west of Carentan across the base of the Cherbourg peninsula and between the Elbe and Vire rivers toward St. Lo, key junction 15 miles southeast of Carentan.

Battle Westward

All along a 10-mile front, units of the American Fourth division and the 29th Air-Borne division were battling westward against strong resistance in a drive to pinch off the peninsula, and with it the prize port of Cherbourg.

Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had thrown approximately 700 tanks into the fighting on the eastern sector and appeared to be using far more infantry than the German command intended to use for the defense of one comparatively small section of the invasion coast.

Despite early successes on the invasion front, a word of warning came from Secretary of War Stimson who said that Allied troops in Normandy soon must face fiercer counter-blows "than any we have ever met." At the same time he predicted they would smash ahead until France is liberated and Germany crushed.

While the troops on the Normandy coast were fighting off the German counter-attacks on land, residents of England itself were dealt a serious "anti-invasion blow" when a fantastic stream of pilotless Nazi bombers rained fire and explosives across the island. This was Hitler's long-awaited "secret weapon" and no attempt was made by the British authorities to minimize the effectiveness of these robot, radio-controlled bombing plane attacks.

CONVENTIONS:

In Chicago

As the advance guard of the Republican party convention delegates began arriving in Chicago, political dopesters had all but awarded the Presidential nomination to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, but friends of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio would not let their candidate be counted out without a battle. They said that the contest for the nomination would go to the convention floor.

Bricker sources could not see a first-ballot victory for Dewey. However, the New York governor entered the convention with more delegates actually pledged to him than any other candidate, including Governor Bricker.

Officials in charge of arrangements for the Chicago meeting revealed that the candidate selected would probably make his acceptance speech from the convention floor on the day after his nomination.

Meanwhile the Democrats announced that Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma would keynote their convention scheduled for July 19, also in Chicago.

PACIFIC:

Action Here, Too

U. S. citizens got a breath-taking indication of the mighty striking power of their vast armed forces when within ten days of the European D-Day, terrific blows were dealt the Japanese on the opposite side of the globe.

Day before the new Super-Flying Fortresses bombed Japan proper, a powerful navy sea and air force blasted the outer defenses of the island of Saipan in the Marianas to prepare the way for the landing of American troops on that strategic Jap base only 1,500 miles southeast of Tokyo.

To wrest Saipan from the Japanese, Americans had a job which combined the worst factors of Tarawa and Guadalcanal. For like at Tarawa they had to land over a well-defended coral reef and like on Guadalcanal, the Jap had himself well entrenched in good fortified positions which extended all the way across that jungle island. When the beachhead on Saipan was established there was still a long way to go but word from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' headquarters indicated that the Yanks were advancing.

Initial reports listed moderate casualties while the official bulletin revealed that: "Virtually all heavy coastal and anti-aircraft batteries on the island were knocked out by naval gun fire and bombing."

While these no longer worried the Americans, they knew their test would come in the inner jungles as they faced the Jap artillery, mortar and machine gun fire.

Super Raid

From secret bases in China, not from an aircraft carrier this time, American planes dealt Japan proper smashing air blow, when a squadron of the new Super Flying Fortresses bombed Japan's homeland. Tokyo radio said industrial areas of Moji and Shimomoseki were hit.

Only a dribble of official news came from American sources on the raid but announcement of aerial task force attack of the giant B-29's indicated that they flew from the China-Burma-India theater land bases.

This raid also revealed the formation of a new air force, the 20th, which would serve the United Nations cause as a roving, globe-circling task force much like a naval fleet. This air arm will not confine itself to attacks on Japan but is "able to participate in combined operations, or to be assigned to strike wherever the need is greatest."

Before any official announcement of the targets was made by the army, a report in congressional circles hinted that Tokyo itself was one of the main objectives.

ITALY:

Allied Drive Continues

German defenses on a broad front 50 to 80 miles above Rome were shattered when Allied Fifth and Eighth army troops drove north in a plunge which netted them hundreds of prisoners.

German resistance had cracked all the way from the Tyrrhenian sea-coast around the northern end of Lake Bolsena and down to Terni, 70 miles east of the Allied advance coastal columns.

The enemy was in full retreat from the entire Adriatic sector. Their retreat was so fast that speedy Eighth army flying columns were unable to contact Nazi rear guards. Even fresh German reinforcements, hastened from the north to halt the Allied advance, were routed after joining the Nazi 14th army in a furious three-day battle.

Where Counter-Attacks Spawn as Allies Advance

As the Allied invasion moves inland to become the battle of Normandy the beachheads grow in depth as new thousands are landed on well-cleaned coast. Constant threat of violent counterattack by the enemy becomes closer and louder. Shown here are two counterattack hubs of the Nazis. In the west the Allied thrust from landing zones has resulted in the capture of Bayeux and a drive to the south toward Caen.

Allied Army and Navy Chiefs Confer in France

Allied Wounded Return

Wounded in the invasion of France, British soldiers are shown lined up, tier on tier along the walls of an LST hospital ship. These were among the first wounded to be returned following the initial landings on the coast of France. Censor has blacked out faces.

Jap Prisoners Taken

When U. S. forces landed at Humboldt bay during the Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, operations these eight Japanese were captured. The second and third men from the left are officers and both have tried to hide their faces from the photographer. The group is being taken by truck to a plane.

De Gaulle in France

Gen. Charles de Gaulle is shown as he landed in France on a Normandy beachhead before he proceeded inland on tour of inspection of allied occupied territory. It was nearly four years since he last set foot on French soil.

Nazis Leave Markers

The Germans retreated so fast in many sections of France that not only did they leave a vast store of equipment, but the markers showing mines were left intact. The Allied troops found some of them duds.

WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

REORGANIZING AMERICA FOR 'FREE ENTERPRISE'

THE VAST MAJORITY of the American people wish to continue to operate under the system of free enterprise. Those who would change to some form of state socialism, with regimentation and regulation of the peoples' activities to continue after the end of the war, represent but a small minority.

For America to achieve a maximum result from free enterprise there is need for a remodeling of our hodgepodge of regulatory laws. We need a practical system of taxation; a practical and workable relationship between labor, capital and management, and a workable system of distribution for use at home and to cover our place in the world of trade.

Basic, simple, primary laws built upon the Constitution as a foundation are possible for all of these requirements. Providing such a structure is not a job for partisans, for theorists, for hobby riders or for those seeking a selfish advantage for any minority group. The construction of all such basic laws should be considered as one job because of the inter-relationship each one would bear to each other.

To provide for such needed fundamentals is a job for congress. By joint resolution there should be appointed a chairman of a board. That chairman should be empowered to name such associates, within a reasonable number, as he may deem qualified, subject to the approval of either the senate or of both houses. Such a procedure would take the preparation out of the realm of partisanship.

The men capable of doing such a job are not numerous. They must have a background of achievement; have something more practical than theories. They should, and would, undertake such a job with no thought of advantage to any one group or class, but of a fair and just result for all, for labor, capital, management, agriculture, merchant and consumer.

A chairman for such a board might be selected from such men as Bernard Baruch, Herbert Hoover, Eric Johnson and others of their type. Men who have demonstrated their ability by achievement. Men who believe in free enterprise. Men whose minds are broad enough to encompass practical needs and maximum results for the American people.

With the Constitution as a foundation we must build a new, more equitable, structure of basic law if we are to secure maximum benefits from the operation of our free enterprise system. The patchwork under which we have operated is outmoded. There is nothing basic about it. Any attempts to patch it up with more amendments will only cause additional confusion to throw the gears of our production and distribution machinery entirely out of mesh. Partisan politics, or bureaucratic theories, can have no place in the doing of such a job as is needed.

AIRCRAFT DEMAND
AFTER THE WAR

THE WAR has undoubtedly increased the air-mindedness of the American people to an extent that will mean increased air transportation facilities when the war is over. That increase, should it double, treble or quadruple the demand for commercial planes, cannot possibly be great enough to provide continued operation of all, or even any major portion, of our airplane plants. When we entered the war all the aviation lines in the nation were flying less than 400 planes. To meet the war demand our airplane plants have turned out over 9,000 planes in one month. That would be enough to provide any possibly anticipated commercial demand for a year after the war.

GOP FARM PLANK

BEFORE THE REPUBLICANS complete their platform it is to be hoped they will consult Wheeler McMillen on the agricultural plank. He can give them a practical program for the encouragement of production that will assist materially in making us independent of other sections of the world for many things we now import. It will give the farmers increased income and cost the government but a fraction of the price paid for AAA and soil conservation. It is a program of production instead of scarcity. The farmer would prefer to earn his money rather than have it given to him.

HISTORY will not speak kindly of those public characters who put personal or party success ahead of national good.

CAN WE SO SYNCHRONIZE the battle of bullets and the battle of ballots as not to impede the war effort or delay the defeat of Hitler?

COMPLACENCY, THE acceptance of things as they are, with no thought or desire for improvement, is a disease for which there is no remedy.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

PAIN DETECTOR: An electrical device, said to be able to detect diseased organs of which the patient is unconscious, was demonstrated at the convention of the Gastro-entological association meeting in Chicago. Dr. Lester Morrison of Philadelphia read a paper on the machine, and explained that it operated by the "viscerogalvanic reaction" of the patient.

FACTORY WAGES: In April earnings of factory workers on an hourly basis reached a new high at $1.057 per hour, the National Industrial conference reports. Because of a shorter work week however, total earnings were somewhat lower, being $48.08 on the national average, down .7 per cent from March. Average work week was 45.2 hours in April.

Delinquent Parents

Strange how much is being said about juvenile delinquency and how little about parental delinquency. Must be a kind of buck passing since practically all the talk is by parents. Of course, there also is buck passing by juveniles who blame their own delinquency on their parents, but after all the power to make reforms lies with the adults rather than with the juveniles.

Too many people have the idea that to try to change the ways of adults is hopeless. They forget that "we learn as long as we live." They forget that numerous parents haven't yet grown up. Some of them never do. Scientists tell us that as a matter of fact, the majority of the minds of the young parents at least are to some extent plastic and amenable to change.

One organization at least has found that part of the cure for juvenile delinquency does lie in working with the parents. The San Diego Association for Family Living, though less than a year old, already has been of considerable help to parents. Dr. Oliver M. Butterfield, the director, and his staff already have justified the association's existence through the aid they have given to parents in San Diego. Their work points one effective way toward curing juvenile delinquency through reducing parental delinquency.

The America They Know

The first major crisis of the invasion is over. We have gained a firm foothold on the soil of France. The road ahead is still a hard one, but the big nightmare of the war is behind us.

Now, in looking back, we can better realize just how much of a nightmare the anticipation of D-day really was. The uncertainties involved in the adventure, together with the endless variety and fantastic quantities of equipment and supplies needed were staggering to the imagination.

Many of us wondered in the long months before June 6, as the ceaseless stream of supplies flowed into Britain, how we would have fared in this world struggle if, before the war, we in America had not developed the capacity for such enormous production. Fortunately for ourselves, and the civilized world, we did have this capacity.

Before Pearl Harbor some people said that American business had grown too big. But when war came—when the chips were down—it was by no means too big. Mass production and distribution are helping win the war. They will help win the peace in making possible ever higher living standards.

Large-scale enterprise is a definite part of the American way of life. Some of the Washington "wonder boys" are bent on breaking it up along with the general revamping of the nation which will better suit their tastes. But we won't improve our standard of living by dismantling what has already proved to be a highly successful economic system.

There is always room for improvement—yes! But improvement should come through refinements in our present system, not by attempting to throw out the entire machinery for something new and untried.

Our fighting men have repeatedly declared that they want to come back to the America they know. Why? Because, after seeing other nations all over the globe, they realize that, with all its faults, the America they know is still the grandest place on earth in which to live and work.

The Glorious Fourth

"And for the support of this Declaration . . . we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

These are the words of the Declaration of Independence which we hear all too infrequently, but which eloquently reveal the stark dangers that confronted the signers of that daring document.

After more than a century and a half since that historic date we are inclined to think of it as a somewhat, glamorous occasion. But actually those men were face to face with the cold stare of death. And they knew it. But knowing it did not deter them from taking their bold step toward independence. "Liberty or death" was not a mere slogan with them, but an expression of what they felt in their hearts.

Realizing these facts, the Fourth of July must mean infinitely more to us than an occasion for picnics and parades, speeches and band-playing. While these activities have long been a part of our observance of the day, we must not allow the real meaning of our Independence day to be lost in any ceremony and function held. The war worker who stays on the job on this holiday is doing more to really celebrate it than anything else he might do.

In 1776 we fought to establish true liberty here on the American continent. Today we and the other United Nations are fighting to establish and preserve liberty all over the world.

The glorious Fourth of 1776 remains the glorious Fourth of 1944, as America honors by work, word, and fighting deeds, the self-same cause of freedom which gave this nation its birth.

Postwar Sign Post

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

THE job of planning for the post-war world is as bewildering and tangled as a South Sea jungle, but there are a few certainties that ought to help us begin to cut a road through. It is certain that our domestic problem is chiefly industrial. If we build a sound industrial prosperity, most other problems will be solved without serious trouble.

It is certain that industrial development will be more technical than ever. Precision methods have been brought during the war to a point which makes prewar methods antiquated, and the new products awaiting peacetime promotion depend upon still further application of the most advanced discoveries of science.

It is certain, then, that postwar industry will depend upon highly skilled technicians. It will not be able to wait a year or two while they go to school. It will need them immediately with the coming of peace, and it will have to take men as it finds them and train them as they work.

It is certain that most men discharged from the armed forces or released from war production will not have the knowledge and skill that industry will need, yet they will want jobs.

The needs of industry and the needs of the men both point to one line of action that will be of major importance in the postwar world—spare-time study. That is the only way industry can get the men it needs and the men can get the jobs they need.

It is fortunate for the country that tens of thousands, both in the armed forces and in war industry, are already training themselves in this way for the task that lies ahead.

YOUR INVASION!

FROM General Bradley, leading the Invasion ground forces, right through every rank, American men now face a brutal, desperate, able enemy. For this invasion has only begun—before our fighters lies a hard and bloody task, one that demands all their courage, backed by all your faith in their ultimate victory.

That faith will be tested many times in this invasion—in grim struggles, setbacks, possibly even temporary defeats. It will be up to you to remember that early victories usually only mean more savage opposition from a foe made more bitter, more ruthless as the shadow of his doom grows larger—up to you to keep that faith in days and nights of gloom as well as in hours of triumph.

There is little that you can do to show that you realize what they must face, perhaps for many months. But one thing you can do—back the attack with every dollar you can spare! Let the Bonds you buy in this greatest of Drives be the measure of your belief in their ultimate victory!

Nazi Channel Defenses Smashed at Great Cost

First Assault Units Drove in Hard Even When Going Was Its Toughest

By ERNIE PYLE

NORMANDY BEACHHEAD.—Due to a last-minute alteration in the arrangements, I didn't arrive on the beachhead until the morning after D-day, after our first wave of assault troops had hit the shore.

By the time we got here the beaches had been taken and the fighting had moved a couple of miles inland. All that remained on the beach was some sniping and artillery fire, and the occasional startling blast of a mine geysering brown sand into the air. That plus a gigantic and pitiful litter of wreckage along miles of shoreline.

Submerged tanks and overturned boats and burned trucks and shell-shattered jeeps and sad little personal belongings were strewn all over these bitter sands. That plus the bodies of soldiers lying in rows covered with blankets, the toes of their shoes sticking up in a line as though on drill. And other bodies, uncollected, still sprawling grotesquely in the sand or half hidden by the high grass beyond the beach.

Ernie Pyle

Now that it is over it seems to me a pure miracle that we ever took the beach at all. For some of our units it was easy, but in this special sector where I am now our troops faced such odds that our getting ashore was like my whipping Joe Louis down to a pulp.

In this column I want to tell you what the opening of the second front in this one sector entailed, so that you can know and appreciate and forever be humbly grateful to those both dead and alive who did it for you.

Ashore, facing us, were more enemy troops than we had in our assault waves. The advantages were all theirs, the disadvantages all ours. The Germans were dug into positions that they had been working on for months, although these were not yet all complete. A 100-foot bluff a couple of hundred yards back from the beach had great concrete gun emplacements built right into the hilltop. These opened to the sides instead of to the front, thus making it very hard for naval fire from the sea to reach them. They could shoot parallel with the beach and cover every foot of it for miles with artillery fire.

Then they had hidden machine-gun nests on the forward slopes, with crossfire taking in every inch of the beach. These nests were connected by networks of trenches, so that the German gunners could move about without exposing themselves.

Throughout the length of the beach, running zigzag a couple of hundred yards back from the shoreline, was an immense V-shaped ditch 15 feet deep. Nothing could cross it, not even men on foot, until fills had been made. And in other places at the far end of the beach, where the ground is flatter, they had great concrete walls. These were blasted by our naval gunfire or by explosives set by hand after we got ashore.

Our only exits from the beach were several swales or valleys, each about 100 yards wide. The Germans made the most of these funnel-like traps, sowing them with buried mines. They contained, also, barbed-wire entanglements with mines attached, hidden ditches, and machine guns firing from the slopes.

This is what was on the shore. But our men had to go through a maze nearly as deadly as this before they even got ashore. Under-water obstacles were terrific. The Germans had whole fields of evil devices under the water to catch our boats. Even now, several days after the landing, we have cleared only channels through them and cannot yet approach the whole length of the beach with our ships. Even now some ship or boat hits one of these mines every day and is knocked out of commission.

The Germans had masses of those great six-pronged spiders, made of railroad iron and standing shoulder-high, just beneath the surface of the water for our landing craft to run into. They also had huge logs buried in the sand, pointing upward and outward, their tops just below the water. Attached to these logs were mines.

In addition to these obstacles they had floating mines offshore, land mines buried in the sand of the beach, and more mines in checkerboard rows in the tall grass beyond the sand. And the enemy had four men on shore for every three men we had approaching the shore.

And yet we got on.

Beach landings are planned to a schedule that is set far ahead of time. They all have to be timed, in order for everything to mesh and for the following waves of troops to be standing off the beach and ready to land at the right moment.

As the landings are planned, some elements of the assault force are to break through quickly, push on inland, and attack the most obvious enemy strong points. It is usually the plan for units to be inland, attacking gun positions from behind, within a matter of minutes after the first men hit the beach.

I have always been amazed at the speed called for in these plans. You'll have schedules calling for engineers to land at H-hour plus two minutes, and service troops at H-hour plus 30 minutes, and even for press censors to land at H-hour plus 75 minutes. But in the attack on this special portion of the beach where I am—the worst we had, incidentally—the schedule didn't hold.

Our men simply could not get past the beach. They were pinned down right on the water's edge by an inhuman wall of fire from the bluff. Our first waves were on that beach for hours, instead of a few minutes, before they could begin working inland.

You can still see the foxholes they dug at the very edge of the water, in the sand and the small, jumbled rocks that form parts of the beach.

Medical corpsmen attended the wounded as best they could. Men were killed as they stepped out of landing craft. An officer whom I knew got a bullet through the head just as the door of his landing craft was let down. Some men were drowned.

The first crack in the beach defenses was finally accomplished by terrific and wonderful naval gunfire, which knocked out the big emplacements. They tell epic stories of destroyers that ran right up into shallow water and had it out point-blank with the big guns of these concrete emplacements ashore.

When the heavy fire stopped, our men were organized by their officers and pushed on inland, circling machine-gun nests and taking them from the rear.

As one officer said, the only way to take a beach is to face it and keep going. It is costly at first, but it's the only way. If the men are pinned down on the beach, dug in and out of action, they might as well not be there at all. They hold up the waves behind them, and nothing is being gained.

Our men were pinned down for a while, but finally they stood up and went through, and so we took that beach and accomplished our landing. We did it with every advantage on the enemy's side and every disadvantage on ours. In the light of retrospection, we sit and talk and call it a miracle that our men ever got on at all or were able to stay on.

Before long it will be permitted to name the units that did it. Then you will know to whom this glory should go. They suffered casualties. And yet if you take the entire beachhead assault, including other units that had a much easier time, our total casualties in driving this wedge into the continent of Europe were remarkably low—only a fraction, in fact, of what our commanders had been prepared to accept.

And these units that were so battered and went through such hell are still, right at this moment, pushing on inland without rest, their spirits high, their egotism in victory almost reaching the smart-alecky stage.

Their tails are up. "We've done it again," they say. They figure that the rest of the army isn't needed at all. Which proves that, while their judgment in this regard is bad, they certainly have the spirit that wins battles and eventually wars.

Vegetable Preparation and Processing (See Directions Below)

Home-grown vegetables are beginning to push their way out of the soil in your own victory gardens.

Perhaps, at first, you will be so delighted that you will want them all for the table, but soon will come the realization that you can "put up" most of your points for next winter if you can them now.

Because pressure cookers are unrated this year, most homemakers will use them for processing vegetables. That is all to the good, for the use of the pressure cooker cuts down processing time, and insures more success in canning if properly used.

Non-Acid Vegetables. Before getting into the fundamentals of canning, we must understand the difference between acid and non-acid vegetables. Tomatoes are in the acid group, but the others, green beans, corn, peas, etc., are all non-acid, and require processing under pressure so that they will keep.

Fresh Vegetables. Selection of the vegetable for canning is one of the important steps. You will be much more careful of what vegetables you put up, if you remember these two points: 1. You get out of your can only what you put into it, i.e., if you can an old, withered ear of corn, then that's what you'll have when you open the jar.

2. Canning, at best, does not improve your food; it only preserves it.

Save Used Fats! Short Route to Jar. Another old maxim that comes in handy during canning time is the one which goes, "two hours from garden to can." That means that you pick the vegetables from your garden and start canning immediately.

If you buy vegetables, get to the market early, and select those that come in fresh in the morning. Take them home and get them started on their way to the jar as fast as possible.

Incidentally, if you are using your own Victory garden as a supply base for canning vegetables, be sure to pick them in the morning while the morning dew is still on them. Picking them later in the day, after the sun has dried out some of their natural moisture, will not give nearly as good results.

Preparation Required. 1. It's a good idea to wash jars first in hot soapy suds and check them for nicks and cracks. All canning equipment may be prepared a day ahead to have everything in readiness when canning actually begins.

2. Prepare vegetable as directed in chart above. In many cases precooking is recommended to shrink the vegetable and set the color.

Lynn Says:

Are you perplexed as to how many jars you should have for canning? How much will the vegetable make when "put up?" Here are some guides:

Asparagus—12 pounds yields 6 pints "stalk," or 2 pints "cut."
Beets—1 bushel makes 40 pint jars, cut in thin slices.
Corn—100 ears of Golden Bantam yields about 14 pints.
Greens—1 bushel spinach yields 13 pint jars.
Dandelion greens—1 bushel yields 15 pint jars.
String beans—1 bushel yields 17 to 20 quarts.
Tomatoes—1 bushel yields 16 to 20 quarts.

3. As soon as vegetable is prepared, get into the jar as soon as possible, otherwise flat sour may develop.

Packing Vegetable. 4. Most vegetables are packed to within one-half inch of the top of the jar. Exceptions to this rule are corn, peas and lima beans.

5. Liquid in which vegetable is precooked may be added to the jar except in the case of strong liquids such as spinach and greens.

Before Processing. 6. Wipe top of jar before placing on lid. Use manufacturers' direction in this case, as all lids differ and your manufacturer knows what kind of tightening is necessary.

Save Used Fats! Processing.

7. Process vegetable, using time-table given above. In using the pressure cooker, allow steam to escape for 7 to 10 minutes before closing petcock. Allow pressure gauge to come up to desired temperature before starting to count processing time. When processing time is over, remove cooker from range, then let pressure gauge come back to zero before opening.

Storage Tips. 8. Remove jars from cooker and lay on several thicknesses of cloth or paper. Do not tighten lid unless so directed by the manufacturer of the jar. Some jars should not be inverted. Here again, consult your individual directions.

9. Store in a cool, dark place. Make sure the jars are not in a draft.

Use of Vegetables. Before tasting or using any home-canned vegetables, boil them in an open vessel for 10 minutes. This will kill any of the toxins which may have formed in the jars.

Non-dieting friends will like this:

Chocolate Chip Pie.
1 baked pie shell
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups milk
3 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar

Soak gelatin in cold water. Scald milk. Add slowly to beaten egg yolks. Add ¼ cup sugar, salt and nutmeg. Cook in double boiler over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Add soaked gelatin and vanilla. Chill until stiff. Beat in remaining 3 tablespoons sugar. Fold in gelatin mixture. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Sprinkle with chipped sweet-sweet chocolate.

Lemon Meat Loaf. (Serves 5 to 6)
1½ pounds lean pork, ground
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup cracker crumbs
2 strips bacon
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
1 cup canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup milk

Combine the meat, eggs, cracker crumbs, seasonings and lemon juice and rind. Place in loaf pan and cover with tomatoes and strips of bacon. Bake covered in a slow (250-degree) oven for 2 hours. Remove cover and add milk and continue baking uncovered for ½ hour more.

Let's Face Facts

Intelligent Defense
Required to Maintain
Parity Price Standard
By BARROW LYONS
—WNU Staff Correspondent—

WASHINGTON, D. C.—

Anyone who thinks that we can have perpetual prosperity without cooperative planning for it, more than we have in the past, is dreaming. I come back to the proposal I made last week: we must adopt a concept of parity income, which includes all segments of our economic life, and find a way to balance the distribution of national income so that all can prosper, if we wish to prosper ourselves. This is not the Golden Rule, but a hard-headed, practical concept of our modern economy.

Let us test this against the concept of parity prices which has become a symbol of justice to the farmer. Parity prices are attained when a given amount of farm produce—say a bushel of corn—will bring to the farmer enough money to buy the same things that a bushel of corn would enable him to buy in the five-year period 1909-1914. Parity price does not guarantee a good crop or a good demand for the crop. It merely guarantees the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar.

When the war ends and millions of war workers lose their jobs making planes, tanks, guns and ships—and millions of service men begin to seek new jobs—mass purchasing power will depend upon how much employment there is. In all probability not only will industrial workers have less to spend when war savings are exhausted, but many who live in small towns and suburbs will begin to raise chickens, fruit and vegetables for themselves.

At the very best, it will be difficult to maintain as large a market for agricultural products as we now have, unless important new uses for them are developed, and world trade is expanded greatly. It will also be difficult to maintain parity prices, for there are no commodities so sensitive to a declining purchasing power.

Even in the immediate future, it looks as though farming would be somewhat less profitable, for prices of nearly everything the farmer buys are rising. And if price controls are weakened, most of the things the farmer buys will cost a lot more.

There is a feeling abroad that with permanent prosperity just around the corner, all production quotas on farm products should be left off after the war—man's nature to produce should not be inhibited by artificial restraints. But if all quotas were abolished and the government were to make commodity loans to protect parity prices on everything the farmer wished to raise, he would very quickly raise a good deal more than he could sell in this country.

Two-Price System? The farm organizations say a two-price system will solve that problem. Keep prices at home up to parity, find new uses for farm products, and sell what is left abroad at whatever we can get for it. But here the doctors differ. Some would have the government take the loss, when produce is exported at a loss. The Grange suggests that the farmer take the loss on products sold abroad at less than cost. That would be the check against raising too much. Such a scheme might be worth trying in one or two exportable commodities.

However, even this device might not bring about sufficient control of production to maintain parity, for many farmers have a tendency to plant more acres to increase income, as soon as price declines—and thereby cut their own throats by creating an unmarketable surplus. The many small and poorly financed farmers, who are hard to control, also create a market problem for the better financed farmers as soon as prices begin to drop.

In relation to commodities like wheat, which in the 1930s developed unmanageable world surpluses, international production control may be necessary, although extremely difficult to bring about. Of course, the best way to preserve a profitable market for farm products is to preserve the purchasing power of the great masses of people who are not farmers. Farmers should never forget that they are a declining proportion of the population. Only 30 years ago farmers constituted more than one-third of the population. Today they are scarcely more than one-fifth.

As efficiency of agriculture increases, the proportion of farmers to the total population will continue to decline. Elimination of several million sub-marginal farms may accelerate this.

When we can agree upon a fair distribution of national income, and set up economic controls that will bring about an approximately just distribution, then for the first time we shall begin fully to enjoy the advantages which modern science and engineering make possible for all people. Until then we shall have wars and political upheavals.

Washable papers are cleaned satisfactorily by wiping them with a cloth wrung out of clear lukewarm soft water and drying with a clean cloth. Use water sparingly so that paper will not absorb it. ### Blazed Trails

Oliver Loving (1813-1867), early trail blazer, was born in Hopkins county, Ky., later moved to Texas and took up his home in Jack county. Like many early settlers he engaged in cattle raising. Loving made the first drive of cattle to Chicago from Texas in 1858. After the Civil war he and a partner made several trips north and then tried a drive to the western market at Santa Fe, N. M. This proved an ill-fated venture as he and his trail companion were set upon by Comanche Indians and Loving was wounded. Believing himself to be fatally stricken, he forced his companion to leave him. He survived his wounds.

WHAT'S BUZZIN'!

By CHERIE.

The passing of Prince, Gladys Bowen's Great Dane dog, makes a total of three in the last month to die of "poisoning." Those of us who own or have owned dogs know what it is to lose a pet, and we sincerely extend our sympathy to the Bowens. Just as a matter of precaution, let's be more careful about where we place our ant poison, and on the other hand, let all dog owners try to keep their pets on their own premises or on a leash. This may help to prevent such disasters in the future.

Our good friends . . .
Look for Gordon Schneider back with us in July. . . Peggy Nichols (Peggy Matlock) is sick-a-bed, and don't bring her fruit juice. It's the mumps! . . . Bill Hawley should be hearing soon about his entry in the "Read" contest. Understand Bill's in the finals. . . Dorothy Oster rhymes her "minutes of the last meeting." . . . Polly Nolan's smiling face will be seen again soon at Schneider's Drug. (Remember her from Kraft's?) . . . Marjorie Austin has sold her home on Del Mar and she and little Susan have gone to visit Marjorie's parents in Washington, D. C. They'll be back. . . Harry and Nedra Polan have closed the deal on Helen's Card and Gift Shop. Helen, we believe, will open a Rental Library and Book Store, if a location can be found. Hearty handshakes to the newcomers! . . . Capt. Burritt Mills was elected commander of the American Legion at their last election of officers.

"Leave Her To Heaven" is Ben Ames Williams' latest contribution to the literary world. He is the author of "The Strange Woman" and "Time of Peace," both extremely sensational novels. This is a story of two great and opposing loves that come into Richard Harland's life, entangling him in a murder, suicide and court room trial. . . Warner Bros. bought Literary Guild's April selection, "Hotel Berlin '43," by Vicki Baum, and production will begin this fall.

There's some buzzin' going on about our new fire station that is in the making at Midway and W. Pt. Loma blvd. The boys say it should be open for service about July 1st.

If you missed your Metropolitan Insurance man this week, there's a reason! Martin Murphy and a gang of Boy Scouts took off for an outing in the back country.

Dan and Veda Moss are giving their patio a dash of charm by using a splash of all colors, ala Peter Hunt! Even the "garbage can" and "trash box" have taken on a note of sophistication!

In passing . . .
One can pick up a load of information, and so long as you don't dump it in the wrong place, you're O. K.!

In case you have any information, call Cherie at B-7232 and B-5605.

THE RED CROSS IN OCEAN BEACH

By ONA E. PITCOCK

Last week the birthday box was made by Mrs. Willard Tripp of 1530 Sunset blvd. and was given to a young man who was very depressed because an expected package from home had not arrived for his birthday. Hospital attendants put his cake on a tray, lighted the candles and then gathered around his bed singing "Happy Birthday to You." They enjoyed a little party, in fact, and he said "tell the lady who sent the birthday cake that it was a gift from heaven and thank her for me."

Mrs. F. B. McElwee made a beautiful all-wool jeep robe for a boy who is in an iron lung. It takes so little to give comfort and happiness to those who have done so much for us.

Many slippers, hospital jackets

Don't forget to call Franklin 7704 and make an appointment to donate your blood. The center is at 446 W. Beech st., corner of Columbia.

The Ocean Beach Red Cross center will certainly miss Mrs. Mae Heidrick. She is a tireless worker and has helped so much that camp and hospital will certainly miss her. Wherever she goes she will work for the Red Cross, so while we shall miss her she will be carrying on the good work somewhere else.

Forty Cub Scouts Attend Stampede In Balboa Park

Ocean Beach was represented by no less than 40 Cub Scouts of Cub Pack 328 and 14 adults at the second annual "Stampede" held at Balboa park stadium Saturday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. Philip Harris, assistant cubmaster, Cubmaster Albert Smith being unable to attend. The Ocean Beach pack was complimented for having an unusually large attendance and they also were in the limelight through their winnings in the eight competitive events that were run off as a part beach, with nearly all of the of the afternoon program. A total of 1500 Cub Scouts were in attendance.

All the "Den Mothers" of the Ocean Beach pack accompanied the local Cub Scouts, and included Mesdames Albert Smith, Stanley Grobecker, A. K. Vedder, Bud Jennings, Roll Keck and L. R. Lyman and Hulon Sullivan.

The Ocean Beach Scouts were taken to the stadium in an Assembly of God church bus for which they wish to publicly thank Rev. E. William Mincey, pastor of that church.

Beach Party Held Thursday.
This week the big event for the Ocean Beach Cub Scouts was a picnic held Thursday at the local events that were run off as a part beach, with nearly all of the Scouts present, also a number of their parents. Free eats and drinks were provided through the generosity of the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club.

The local unit now consists of 56 boys registered, and is now one of the largest in the San Diego area, reports Rev. Harris.

SIXTY DOLLARS MONTH PENSION PLAN TO GO IN BALLOT IN NOVEMBER

A new pension plan, which includes Dr. Francis Townsend as a sponsor and would pay $60 a month to persons 60 and over, will appear on the California ballot at the November general election, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced tonight.

Jordan said petitions for qualification of the proposition bearing 213,081 signatures had been filed with his office, well over the 178,764 necessary.

A gross three per cent tax on incomes of persons and organizations doing business for a profit would be levied by the plan to pay the contemplated pensions.

before washing instead of after will save a lot of unnecessary wear and tear. Nor is it laundry-wise to mend after ironing; the rumpling of freshly laundered blouses can be avoided by mending them before they go into the tub.

You'll save a lot of work, too, and make wash-day easier by always having plenty of hot water on hand. Your gas water heater will provide a constant supply of fresh hot water if you follow a few easy suggestions:

1. Keep the thermostat set at 140° Fahrenheit. This temperature is adequate for household needs and provides maximum heater efficiency.

2. Drain the sediment from the water heater at frequent intervals.

3. Don't waste hot water. See that faucets are turned off tight — that there is no drip.

Other timely suggestions to speed up your wash day as well as a valuable stain-removal chart are all found in a special free booklet, "Tub Talk".

Auxiliary Points To Year's Record Of Achievements

Mrs. Myrtle A. Orrick was elected for her third term at the election held by Clyde A. Wright unit 433 of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion at the June meeting, Thursday afternoon, June 22. Bertha Shaffer was elected first vice-president. Katherine Rigg second vice-president. Eudaville Wright chaplain and Doris Orrick secretary-treasurer. The officers of the auxiliary on the executive committee are awaiting new members yet to be chosen. The meeting was held at the home of Bertha Shaffer.

Reports on the outstanding achievements of the local group during the past year were a feature of the program. Anna Neujahr, membership chairman, reported the unit had made its membership quota on December 31 and received a W. M. O. Q. card. The unit will receive both the national and department citations this year.

Eudaville Wright reported on the hospital program. Ten dollars worth of magazine subscriptions were given boys at the Naval hospital. On Mother's Day Doris Orrick and her mother, Myrtle Orrick, visited the boys in ward 222, Balboa park, distributing 135 comic and western magazines. The unit gave 12 glass ash trays, nine wash cloths, six vases, 100 Easter cards, 20 tray favors, five pairs slippers, 72 pocket size books to the hospital during the year ending June 30, 1944. Katherine Rigg gave a mandolin and 12 picture puzzles to the hospital.

Through the efforts of the president, enough discarded woolen clothing was gathered to furnish material for 16 wheel-chair robes. The unit has distributed about 1500 magazines to camps in the local district, and entertained 43 servicemen as guests in members' homes, furnishing meals and occasionally a cot for the night. Three guest boxes were sent overseas and two toilet kits were presented. A farewell party was given by Doris Orrick to 18 air cadets and Marines. Grace Chadwick gave two Marines a lift to Los Angeles. Thirty hours have been spent repairing servicemen's clothing and sewing on chevrons. The unit purchased 10 swim suits for the local U. S. O. and presented 12 games to them. The unit also is 100 per cent on War Bond purchases as individuals.

The members gathered two tons of paper and saved 87 pounds of waste fat. The president has a thousand-hour ribbon as a civilian defense "block" leader as well as first aid station attendant, and has given her third pint of blood. She has formed a "Young Com-mando" group of boys to aid in gathering salvage and keep glass cleaned off the fields and streets. Katherine Rigg has a 1500-hour stripe for A. W. V. S.

The unit has had two "child welfare" cases this year, with an expenditure of $20 of unit funds and $160 from the department. has given about $40 worth of used clothing to three children, and has a claim filed for government compensation for a veteran father.

Three thousand poppies were sold by three members of the unit with a net to the unit of nearly $190, after the veterans at the hospital were paid for making the poppies and 40 per cent was sent to the "Department of Child Welfare" fund.

Two "pot-luck" feeds were held during the year and the post was presented with a cake at the "pot-luck" held in honor of the Legion's birthday. The unit is closing the year with $240 in the treasury and a membership of 18.

"We wish to thank the Ocean Beach News for the splendid co-operation in printing items of our Auxiliary work during the year, explaining the Bill of Rights, Child Welfare, and Rehabilitation and the Poppy program," says President Myrtle Orrick.

FIREMEN ISSUE PLANS FOR ANNUAL CIRCUS TO BE HELD JULY 3 AND 4

San Diego firemen, in presenting their fifth annual circus and fireworks display in Balboa stadium at 8 p. m., July 3 and 4, have completed plans to make the two-night celebration one of the greatest patriotic pageants to be staged in southern California.

With the approval of the Army and Navy and the lifting of wartime regulations that prevented their shows in 1942 and 1943, firemen state they were able to arrange for a grand show this year, and, due to the limited seating capacity of the stadium, have scheduled a two-night performance so that everyone desiring to witness such grand safe patriotic entertainment might have the opportunity of doing so.

An hour-long professional circus, of 4-ring caliber, with dozens of clowns, lots of trained animals, trapeze artists and aerialists, troupes of acrobats, and many other headline "big top" acts, is to be presented. A group of aerialists, working on a wire suspended 125 feet in the air, will climax the circus performance.

Immediately after the circus finale a spectacular 70-minute fireworks display is to begin. Composed entirely of pyrotechnics manufactured before Pearl Harbor, the display will feature many patriotic themes as well as giant pin wheels, huge colored fountains, shooting stars, and fire falls stretching across the stadium. Giant rockets and roman candles also will be used.

NOTED THEOSOPHICAL SPEAKER TO TALK HERE

Boris de Zirkoff, field lecturer for the International Theosophical Society headquarters at Coquina, Calif., will present a public lecture at the Ocean Beach Lodge room, 4633 Long Branch ave., Monday evening, July 3, at 8 p. m.

His subject is "Our Immediate Hope," and will deal mainly with the fact that side by side with all the terrible conflict taking place in the outer world, there is a world-wide demand for a new order of things; a new hope . . . new, but very old at that . . . for the human race lies in the growing realization among all the people that mankind is one large family, that all should live together in peace and understanding and share alike the bounties of the earth. This new spirit is felt everywhere; it is voiced by the common people, resounds stronger than the noise of the battlefields for those who have ears to hear. It is precisely in this growing realization of the unity of mankind that can be seen, more than in anything else, the silent growth of the Theosophical Movement in the world, as the very cornerstone of the movement is universal brotherhood. Whatever channels this idea is expressing itself through is only incidental; the main thing is that more and more people are being won over to it; our immediate hope is in this powerful shifting of human consciousness from separateness to potential unity.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Jessie B. Thomas, 5116 Long Branch ave., has gone to Philadelphia for her first visit to her former home in 12 years, and for that reason she is "enjoying the visit even though the thermometer goes up to 94 and 96 and the humidity is terrible," she writes the Ocean Beach News. She plans to be gone until September.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of Flying Fortress "The Swallow," tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines, killing eight of his men and demolishing Old 99, with many other Forts, before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the 19th Bombardment Group flies to Java, where they defend the island until it falls. U. S. fliers evacuate to Australia to carry on the war from there. From its base in North Australia the 19th, plus the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, ## CHAPTER XXIII

"So the Major started out then on an ordinary box-search problem, trying to find this Cloncurry—you fly so many minutes north, and then east, and then south, and then west, and then, lengthening your time, north again, and so on. We kept this up for quite a while, but no Cloncurry, and our gas was running out. I'll say this, though, the Major sure wasn't running short of advice. What with his cockpit full of air generals of all nations, he had plenty of that, and every different kind you can imagine—they all knew just what to do.

"The trouble was, every time he paced from the nose of the plane back to the tail, it would throw the plane out of balance, and Frank here would have to trim ship, in addition to all the questions he was answering. I guess this pacer had never thought of that.

"By this time Frank had decided the only thing to do was to make a forced landing, so he was leaning over the side trying to pick a spot."

"With all of those guys yammering at you, telling you what to do," said Red, "and this guy pacing. Only for a while he stopped, but just for a minute, while he was putting on a parachute. Why, I wouldn't quite know. Because we were down to 500 feet, and if he did jump of course it would never have time to crack. But I didn't say a word, because buckling himself in was keeping him quiet. Only right away he starts this pacing again, with the poor Major trying to nose her down for a crash landing, and he tells me to tell them all to get back in the tail so it will act as a brake, only this guy starts pacing again.

"Now I was getting the jumps, for even if the Major is the best pilot in the business, a crash landing is no joke, even for old-timers. So I grab this pacing guy and 'Now look,' I says to him. 'You may carry plenty of rank on your shoulders, but to this pilot you're just two hundred pounds of ballast. So now you quit shifting around—you get back there and sit down.' And I herded him back to the very tip end of the plane, and pushed him down, parachute and all, on that little seat. You've probably been wondering all along, just where this little seat is, on a bomber. Well, it's just where it would be any place else—even on a farm—all you do is follow the clothes line, back down to the end of the grape arbor, and there she sets.

"Well, I pushed him down on the seat, and in about a minute there was quite a bump, but still it was a perfect three-point landing. In four seconds the Major had her rolling smooth. The ground was soft. Twenty-five tons is a lot of bomber, and her wheels began to sink in—about six inches. But the Major could sense this, so he gave gas to all four engines to keep her rolling, and taxied her up to high ground hard enough to hold her up.

"We get out. Pretty soon Australian ranchers begin crawling out of holes in the ground. I don't know where else they came from—and right away Lieutenant Commander Johnson gets busy. He begins to get acquainted. They tell him where we are and some of them go off to get a truck to take us into town where we can telephone, and more keep coming, and Johnson is shaking hands all around, and he comes back and tells us these are real folks—the best darn folks in the world, except maybe the folks in his own Texas. Pretty soon he knows all their first names, and they're telling him why there ought to be a high tariff on wool, and there's no question he swung that county for Johnson before we left. He was in his element. I know he sure swung the Swallow crew. He can carry that precinct any day."

"Listening to him made us all homesick," said Frank, "so I suppose it was a good thing we got suddenly ordered back to the States at the end of the month. In a curious way I was ready now to come. I'd turned it down before, because after we were thrown out of Java we all had that sick feeling—trying to hold onto something that was slipping away in spite of everything you did. You couldn't walk out feeling things might suddenly cave in again.

"But now it was different. In Australia and that island chain above we were getting firmly set, the way we should have been in the Philippines and Java, and didn't have time.

"But we'd had it now, and knew how to use it. Best of all, we were finally getting some fighting equipment, not just production figures. So even though we were soaking up plenty of heavy punches in the island chain, we were sure now we could at least hold them. But as yet I hadn't dared hope for much more.

"Only now I come to the thing which at last changed that, because I had to see it before I could believe it.

"It happened out on that long trans-Pacific trail where we've all most worn ruts in the sky between the States and Australia. It was like this. We were letting down for one of the island steppingstones which, according to Harry's navigation, should be somewhere ahead of us. It was very early in the morning. Harry's the best navigator in the business, and he had said we should be in there six hours from the time we left the last island. But of course his figures could be a little out, or maybe the wind drift would change—you never know. The Pacific is too big a place to take chances in, as Eddie Rickenbacker's party found out. So after we'd been out five hours we got the island on the radio, and asked them to give us searchlights, just so we wouldn't miss their little pinpoint in the dawn.

"We'd flown without change of course for five hours. Now Harry took his final shots and we started down the line to that island. Harry had said six hours—it took us just five hours and fifty-seven minutes. The island was an atoll around a shallow basin where Navy PBV flying boats could light. The atoll is two feet above high tide at its high point. On one side are labor construction tents, a cantonment building for the tiny garrison, ack-ack, searchlights, and even a tiny movie theater. On the other side is the landing strip. I'll swear Harry must have navigated not for the island, but for that landing strip itself. For without change of course, all we have to do is let our wheels down. Some day I want Eddie Rickenbacker to meet Harry.

"As we climbed out of the Swallow, the island garrison asked us, very excited, 'Did you see anything?' When we said we hadn't, they went off by themselves, whispering. I wanted to know what was up, so I asked their Colonel. Told him we were on an important mission ourselves—had a top-ranker aboard—and what did he expect here at this atoll?

"'Trouble,' he said. Looking at his little setup, I couldn't help thinking of those poor guys who were overwhelmed on Wake Island. But the Colonel wasn't sure what kind of trouble was coming. He only knew orders had mysteriously come putting the Navy patrol planes on extra-long hours, doubling shifts. Somewhere, somebody was certainly on the lookout for something, and those poor devils had to sit on that atoll and guess what it might be.

"It didn't smell good. We gassed up and got out forty-five minutes later, just as it was cracking dawn. By now, the equatorial front had dissolved into a spotted ceiling. I suppose we'd been going an hour when, through a hole in this ceiling, out suddenly popped four or five ships down on the wrinkled sea. But I could only look at one of them.

"Now you think you're a man, with everything under control, yet I'm telling you I reacted to this one the way a fox terrier does to a rat. Because it was a whopping aircraft carrier! And after Java and the Philippines, say 'carrier' to a pilot, and he steadies everything for his bomb run, tense as a violin string, hoping his bombardier has the hairlines of his bomb sight crossed on its flight deck just over the engine room. It's like a bird dog pointing quail, with his tail tip quivering. Only, after half a second, I'm a man again and can think, can remember we haven't any bombs swinging on their shackles in our bomb bays—nothing we can drop on this beautiful target but the high-ranking passenger who is riding with us.

"Then comes reaction number two. No bombs, but what about the carrier's covering fighters? You talk about a mother tiger fighting for her young—that's nothing to the way a patrolling carrier fighter will defend its mother ship. Because every carrier-based fighter knows that once his carrier is hit and the waves begin to sweep over that long flight deck, and one end of her hoists up in the air, then he's out in the big sky by his lonesome—no pontoons, nothing to do but sink into the sea when his tanks are dry. Those Zeros will come screaming in to hit me from almost any cloud. Since I can't make a bomb run, I must get away quick!

"But now, over the interphones, comes a shout—they've spotted another carrier. I look and see it too. Then another! And now—my God, it can't be, but it is—four! It makes us frantic we haven't got something to plunk through those smooth flight decks into their engine rooms, and maybe blow a few square yards out of the bottom of their hulls!

"Only we now grow cold, because where are the escorting fighters? We can't speed up, because they should be up ahead, but they might show up any place—come leaping up at us out of this fleecy blanket of overcast like dolphins jumping through the foam.

"Down there are not only four carriers but a gang of other stuff—a fog of destroyers, at least fifteen cruisers, and one thundering big battleship. Only as a bomber pilot I'm fixed on those carriers, enormous brutes. Too enormous. Say, what's going on? Because Jap carriers are little devils—you can hardly pack forty planes into them, while these might hold double that, like our best ones. Now wait. Maybe we're too low and these just look big, but no—I glance at the altimeter and we're at 7,500.

"So they're ours! This big parade of surface strength is us Americans! I change course just the same—30 degrees, swinging wide of this big naval parade, because we can take no chances on their air patrol. Even an American carrier fighter, when he sees a bomber over his mother ship, should shoot first and ask questions later. We don't want to tangle with Grummans.

"We swing out wide and away, but with what a different feeling! 'Well, I guess that's about all, except on our homeward trip, we cracked the trans-Pacific record wide open. The old Swallow, with her war-worn motors, made it from Brisbane to San Francisco in thirty-six hours ten minutes flying time, the only one of the original 35 on Clark Field to see home again."

"When they said long distance was calling from San Francisco, of course that didn't mean anything to me," said Margo. "With two brothers in the Air Corps, one in bombardment and one in pursuit, it might be either one. Then I heard Frank's own voice saying 'Margo?' Because I hadn't heard any overseas operators, or any censor clicking in, I knew he must be here in the States. For the first time I could cry on the phone. . . . It's nice to be strong, but so much more fun to let down when you can, and I did."

(THE END)

Coffee Introduced by Accident in Vienna

Whether Kaffa or Kahwa, kophe, Kaffee or Coffee, whether it puts one to sleep or makes one as wide awake as a sentry on post, the fact remains that had not the Turk soldiers, in their retreat from Vienna in 1683, left behind their stores of coffee beans, this present universal beverage may have remained unknown in Europe and this country for a long time. In his "Story of Coffee" appearing in Natural History, published by the Museum of Natural History, Dean Freiday reveals some hitherto unknown facts regarding this autocrat of the breakfast table.

"Coffee was introduced into Europe largely by accident," he writes. "In the battle of Vienna in 1683, the Turks were finally routed from the gates of the city in such a hurry that they left their tents, camels and personal effects behind. Among them were 500 sacks of dark-colored beans. In the ensuing pillage, the soldiers were on the point of throwing the sacks into the river, thinking them useless camel fodder, when a certain Kolshitsky appeared on the scene. Kolshitsky had been a spy for the Europeans, and in his contacts with the Turks had learned the use of coffee. For his services which had been largely responsible for the saving of the city, the Viennese made him a citizen of Vienna and extended him the privilege of entering any trade he might choose. When he saw the coffee he asked for it and then petitioned for the privilege of opening a coffee-house.

"At first he met with little success, for the Viennese didn't like the bitter drink with the grounds in it that made them choke. Faced with the problem of turning a liability into an asset, Kolshitsky determined to make a drink from his beans more suited to the tastes of Vienna. He strained the coffee to remove the grounds, added sugar and cream and served sweet rolls and filled doughnuts.

"Although coffee had an early start in Vienna, it did not spread from there over Europe as might have been expected, but was rather introduced independently at other points," continued Mr. Freiday, who then goes on to show how coffee beans are now being used for other than beverage purposes. He writes: "In the world of tomorrow, coffee is destined to play a great many roles now strange to it, for a method of manufacturing plastics from it has recently been perfected. You may soon drink a cup of coffee in what is literally a cup of coffee, or brush your teeth with what might have been a cup of coffee.

"One 132-pound bag of coffee (of which nightmare surpluses have caused Brazil to destroy 66,000,000) is reported to produce 40 square feet of plastic half an inch thick and approximately 1.25 gallons of coffee oil from which various chemical and pharmaceutical products can be manufactured. As any grade of coffee may be used, it is possible that future coffee drinkers will have only the very choicest quality, for there will be no inducement to market inferior grades for beverage purposes."
